Good Evening!

Short spring. Already it's summer.

With mercury touching 90 or better today, it's either April or July—take your choice. But watch May do the twist.

School youngsters still in the classrooms these perfect fishing and old swimming hole days? We know exactly how a teacher could make himself mighty popular.

U.S. Steel, Bethlehem Steel and two other companies indicted by a Federal grand jury on charges of price-fixing and bid-rigging in connection with equipment for the Army, Navy and private manufacturers during the period from 1948 to 1961.

Well sir, you just never know. Of course you can't pass judgment until steel has had its say. But why in the world do these big corporations get themselves in a fix where they must be considered suspect in the first place?

Our great free enterprise system deserves an infinitely better break.

That $75 million Delaware River channel project now 93 per cent complete and will be finished a year hence, Col. Seiffert, Philadelphia district Army engineer, announces.

And here we are, still bumbling around in Lower Bucks County doing precisely nothing about port facilities.

Sometimes we think our folks should take a tour of Jersey and note how the leadership on that side of the river is taking advantage of every industrial, commercial and transportation opportunity. Never fear, they'll have a modern river port before we even start talking about it.

Youth crime on the increase in Philadelphia and youth shenanigans getting worse in Lower Bucks.

And just as you'd expect, every body sits around wringing his hands and doing nothing.

Women are remarkable creatures—whereas men don't say much.

World War III, if it comes, won't determine who is right, but who is left.

Live carefully, please.

22 Railroad Cars Upset Near Paoli

PAOLI, Pa. (UPI) — Twenty-two cars of a 97-car Pennsylvania Railroad freight train were derailed today crippling traffic and forcing evacuation of 60 families as a precautionary measure.

All four tracks of the railroad's main line to the west were blocked and about 400 feet of track were ripped up. A railroad spokesman said the derailment was caused by a hot journal box on the 22nd car.

There were no injuries reported but families living along a road which parallels the line were evacuated due to danger of explosions from several chemical-laden tank cars.

East-west passenger service was rerouted from Downingtown and proceeded on the Trenton, N.J., cutoff. Freight movement was via Wilmington, Del., Perryville, Md. and Columbia, Pa. to Harrisburg.

West bound commuter trains from Philadelphia to Paoli were cancelled this morning. Commuters to the city had to travel by Bryn Mawr past the wreckage before getting a train downtown.

County GOP Leaders Show Scranton Around

U. S. Rep. William W. Scranton, Republican organization candidate for governor, arrived in Bucks County this morning for his only appearance prior to the May 15 primary election.

Scranton was met by County Chairman Frederick E. Ziegler and other GOP leaders at the Willow Grove Interchange of the Pennsylvania Turnpike. They accompanied him to Trainer's Restaurant in Quakertown for a 9 o'clock breakfast meeting with Upper Bucks County leaders.

The congressman then visited Dublin for a tour of the Kollsman Motors Plant.

He arrived at the Doylestown Inn at 11 o'clock and appeared

U.S. Explodes 2nd Pacific Nuclear Shot

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States today exploded its second nuclear shot in the Pacific test series.

The Atomic Energy Commission said the nuclear device was dropped from an airplane near Christmas Island and was in "the intermediate yield range."

The AEC said this meant it had explosive power of less than one million tons of TNT but more than 20,000 tons. It was the same as the device dropped from a plane Wednesday that opened the Pacific tests.

Because of such factors as the uncertainty of weather conditions and the cost of maintaining the planes, ships and 12,000 men of Task Force 8 in the Pacific, the tests are being conducted as fast as possible.

Officials said tests were expected every two or three days during the series, named "Operation Dominic." The first of the planned two to three dozen shots came Wednesday in the air near Christmas Island.

The first explosion, a device dropped from an airplane, was believed to have the force of at least 100 kilotons — 100,000 tons of TNT. Other tests in the series were expected to range as high as 10 megatons — 10 million tons of TNT.

Scuffs At Criticism

While the scientists were studying data from the first shot and getting ready for the second, Secretary of State Dean Rusk scoffed at Communist criticism of the testing.

Denouncing the "strident language" of the Communist bloc, he said at his news conference Thursday that it emphasized Russia's "weak" position in blocking

Record Heat Is Possible

Lower Bucks Counties today are enjoying what may be the hottest April day in history.

The U. S. Weather Bureau in Trenton reported that the all-time high for April, 93 degrees set on April 27, 1915, "may go by the boards."

From a low this morning of 59 degrees, the mercury began a rapid climb around 7 a.m. and at 2 p.m. it had reached 87 degrees.

Fair And Hot

The forecast was fair and hot with the day's high about 90, or as the weatherman said, "we may even approach the all-time record." Tonight's overnight low will be in the 60's.

Tomorrow's outlook is for more hot weather becoming humid in the afternoon. Temperatures are expected between 85-90 degrees.

It all shapes up for a nice weekend with continued hot and humid weather on Sunday. However, showers or thundershowers are expected to break up matters in the late afternoon or evening.

Yesterday's high of 86 set a record for April 26, eclipsing the old mark of 85 in 1942.

Police Still Track Down Leads

Hunting For Boy Missing 19 Days

Falls Township police continued to track down leads today in their search for a 16-year-old Levittown boy who has been missing from his home for three weeks.

No trace has been seen since April 9 of William E. Whitehurst, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest C. Grant of 2 Viking Lane, Vermilion Hill, when he left home for classes at Medill Bair High School.

Moyer today said that "whenever we get an inkling we track it down." He said that Falls police have been throughout Bucks County and nearby New Jersey talking with boys and girls who know about Whitehurst.

Burlington-Bristol Bridge Manager To Retire Monday

By SCOOP LEWIS
Courier-Times Staff Writer

Harry C. Federkeil, who has seen Burlington - Bristol Bridge traffic grow from 240,000 vehicles in 1932 to over six million last year, will retire on Monday as manager of the busy Delaware River span.

The 75-year-old Langhorne resident has managed the bridge for the past 20 years. He started out as a toll collector in 1932. Today he's looking forward to spending a well-earned rest and days of fishing at his summer home at Ship Bottom, N.J.

Vincent Ulissi of Beverly, N.J., yesterday was named manager of the bridge, effective May 1. He has been assistant manager since Feb. 1. Ulissi will receive $6,500, the same salary he is drawing as assistant manager. Federkeil received $9,800.

Looking back on this 30 years' service on the Burlington-Bristol Bridge, Federkeil said "it's a lot different today."

When he started as a toll collector on June 1, 1932, Federkeil said, "there were only three of us, one on each shift. We collected both ways." Today, there are 16 collectors, four tower men and four supervisors manning the bridge around the clock.

"We did everything 30 years ago," he related. "We ran snowplows and had to raise and lower the bridge. When a boat came along we'd have to put the gates down at the toll booths and go up and raise the bridge."

Federkeil recalls that the toll for cars in 1932 was 35 cents one way and 60 cents for a return trip. "Four tickets cost $1.00," he added. Today, the toll for automobiles one way is five cents.

Traffic Gained

The Burlington - Bristol Bridge opened on May 31, 1931. The Tacony - Palmyra Bridge, also a part of the Burlington County Bridge Commission, was opened in 1926. The county bridge commission took over operation of the two spans in 1948.

Federkeil noted that in 1932 a total of 243,240 vehicles used the Burlington - Bristol Bridge. In 1948 when the commission took over, he pointed out, 698,325 vehicles crossed back and forth. During 1961 a total of 6,175,000 used the span.

In reflecting on the increased amount of traffic, Federkeil said, "I was a half-hour getting across the bridge today. That intersection in Bucks County is

Penndel Officer, Langhorne Youth

The Case Of Who Punched Whom And Why Awaits Verdict Today

The case of an assault and battery charge by a Penndel patrolman against a Langhorne teenager will go before the Bucks County jury for a verdict today after a day's testimony was heard yesterday. The youth, Thomas Rickards, 19, of 469 Elmwood Ave., had entered a not guilty plea.

At yesterday's trial, Patrolman John Destolfo testified that the youth punched him twice knocking him down both times.

The incident, Destolfo said, took place in the Skyline Diner, Penndel, Nov. 30. He said that the attack was unprovoked when he was trying to take down the names of six of Rickard's companions who were noisy and creating a disturbance at the restaurant.

Waitresses Testify

Destolfo's testimony was supported yesterday by two waitresses who were working in the diner at the time.

But Rickards testified that the patrolman grabbed him by the shirt and tried to push him into a seat. The youth said that he refused to be seated and give his name because he didn't know who the patrolman was.

Rickards said that he tried to pull away and became aggravated when his shirt sleeve was torn. He then punched the patrolman but only once, Rickards said.

Six Companions

The youth's testimony was backed up by six of his companions whom defense attorney, James Fitzcharles III called to the witness stand. Each youth said that he didn't know that Destolfo was a police officer when he entered the diner about 1 a.m.

Destolfo had been summoned to the diner by a customer.

Under cross-examination by Fitzcharles, Destolfo said he was wearing plain clothes at the time and did not remember whether or not he was carrying a badge.

The case is being tried before

Firm To Contest Charges

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Leslie B. Worthington, president of U.S. Steel Corp., appealed to the public today to withhold judgment on his firm until charges of conspiracy to fix prices were decided in court.

Worthington said his firm would contest the indictment in the courts.

"The policy of U.S. Steel Corp. has been and is to comply fully with the anti-trust laws," Worthington said in a statement. "Our employees are well aware of this policy which has been communicated to them and emphasized on many occasions."

Without A Question

"They know without question that they have no authority to enter into agreements with competitors which in any way restrict competition or restrain absolute freedom of action with respect to commercial matters."

Worthington said the indictment involved the heavy forging industry "which is separate and distinct from the basic steel industry."

"United States Steel is a very minor factor in this industry with a participation of only about 4 per cent," he said. "Also, heavy forgings constitute a virtually negligible portion of our total business."

Not Served Indictment

Homer S. Lackey, president and chief executive officer of Erie Forge and Steel Corp. of Erie, Pa., said last night he did not know the exact nature of the charges because his firm had not been served with an indictment.

Lackey, one of five steel executives named in the indictment, said Erie Forge would "continue, as it has for 90 years, to furnish quality products at reasonable prices to our customers, both government and industry; to provide jobs for our many employees, and to strive to earn a return on our shareholders' investment."

Another executive named in the indictment, R.B. Heppenstall Sr., president of Midvale-Heppenstall Co., had "no comment" on the indictments.

Others Indicted

In addition to U.S. Steel, Bethlehem Steel Co., Midvale-Heppenstall Co., and Erie Forge were indicted by the grand jury. They were charged specifically with violating the Sherman anti-trust act on steel forgings used for making ship shafts and Army ordnance pieces.

In New York U.S. Attorney Robert Morgenthau set May 10 as the date the defendants would plead in the indictments.

Charges of price-fixing and bid-rigging dating back to 1948 were returned Thursday by a federal grand jury which indicted U.S. Steel and two smaller companies. Five individual executives and a trade association also were named in the indictment.

All were accused of illegally fixing prices in the sale of forged steel to the Army, Navy, electrical firms and other companies.

The action sent an uneasy stock market to its lowest level in a year. It came just two weeks after U.S. Steel, Bethlehem and other major producers were forced to rescind an announced $6-a-ton price increase because of intense pressure from the Kennedy administration and the refusal of some steel companies to increase their prices.

Such indictments are usually announced in Washington. It was thought Thursday's was issued in New York to remove doubt that the administration wanted revenge on the steel industry for its unsuccessful bid to raise prices.

The government said the indictment resulted from an investigation launched last December. Another grand jury, formed April 12 on orders from U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, also is investigating the major steel producers.

A. B. Homer, Bethlehem board chairman, said the forging business was about one-fifth of one per cent of the company's total finished shipments.

Ovation For Blough

U.S. Steel Board Chairman Roger Blough was in New York Thursday night to attend a dinner of the Newcomen Society. He received a standing ovation when he introduced the speaker, Norfolk and Western Railway President Stuart T. Saunders.

Blough made a few off the cuff remarks before introducing Saunders, saying: "I'd better make a little confession. My real reason for coming here was to get away from the headlines."

"I thought some of you would like to see my wound stripes."

Later, Blough commented that "one of the most necessary things this country must have is confidence in the business of this country."

Bethlehem released its first quarter earnings report at about the same time the indictment was returned. Earnings were up sharply, to $38.5 million or 81 cents a share. The figure during last year's recession—hit first quarter was $7.9 million or 14 cents a share.

Congress Cautions

The indictment said that steel executives allegedly involved in the price-fixing huddled at several Manhattan locations. It said U.S. Steel did not participate directly in "pricing inquiries" but turned them over to Bethlehem. The latter company, it charged, acted as go-between.

The conspiracy allegedly started as early as 1948 and continued up to a year ago, the indictment charged.

Going in Circles

By Paul Altair

Putting a "Wet Paint" sign on a wall has long ago ceased to be a deterrent to our mortals who just can't resist giving it the "finger test."

And in this push-button day and age — a "Don't Touch" sign proves to be just as inept when there are hundreds of colorfully lighted levers and knobs blinking coquettishly at you from the panel of an IBM gadget.

But if you think we finger-pushers act that way because we don't know any better, you may be surprised to learn that even scientists and technicians working around intricate electronic machines get the same tempting urge.

Up in Andover, Me., which I visited recently on an inspection tour of Bell Telephone's $10,000,000 satellite earth station I found the same problem existed until somebody with a sense of humor and some extra time on his hands typed out this sign.

"Achtung — Alles Lookenspeepers. Das Computamachine is nicht for Gefingerspoken und Mittengraben. Is Easy Schnappen der Springenwerken, Blownfusen und Poppenscorcken mit Spitzensparken. Is nicht for Geworcken by das Dumpkupfen, das Rubberneckin, Sightseeren. Keepen hands in das Pockets. Relaxen und watch das Blinkenlights."

bers of the Pennsbury Board generally seemed receptive to the idea.

Mrs. Kessler cited several advantageous reasons why Tullytown's acceptance as the fourth member of the Pennsbury jointure would be good for Pennsbury.

Dividing Line

Mrs. Kessler noted that: Tullytown's single Walt Disney Elementary School is located on the dividing line between Tullytown and Falls Township, and Pennsbury students living near the Disney school would not have to travel all the way to Penn Valley School in North Park, Levittown.

The Disney School, completed in 1955 at a cost of $800,000, has extra classrooms, and Pennsbury is short on some elementary grades in the Falls area. "There'd be a couple of additional classrooms available," she said.

Mrs. Kessler said Tullytown's request to enter Pennsbury would probably be taken up at the next executive board meeting to be held Wednesday at Fallsington Elementary School, headquarters for Pennsbury Schools.

Dr. Muschell Comments

Dr. Charles S. Muschell, regional superintendent of Pennsbury Schools, commented on Tullytown's entrance into Pennsbury.

He said that the Bucks County Education Department would first have to okay Tullytown's request; then the Delhaas Joint Board would have to allow Tullytown to leave its jointure, and then the matter would be taken up by Pennsbury board members.

He admitted, however, that Maynard Pennington, supervising principal of Tullytown Schools, is presently preparing "data"—including facts and figures—on the feasibility of Tullytown to be added to Pennsbury. He said the Pennsbury board is expected to review it as soon as it is obtained.

Statistics Sent In

Pennington said the Tullytown board has already sent in statistics to Dr. George Raab, superintendent of Bucks County Schools, on its request to be switched from Delhaas to the Pennsbury jointure. "I have already presented some findings to Dr. Raab," Pennington said.

Pennington explained further that Tullytown board has a contract with Delhaas, and that "we cannot break it except through mutual agreement."

Asked why Tullytown wanted to leave Delhaas, Pennington said, "For the simple reason that we are practically surrounded by Falls Township."

He added that the 300 elementary students in Tullytown attend the new Walt Disney School, but that the other 200 secondary students have to go to Franklin D. Roosevelt Junior High and Delhaas High School, out of the immediate area.

"Somebody Jumped Gun"

"I don't know how all this got out," Pennington commented, "somebody must have jumped the gun."

He admitted, however, that "we are making exploratory work on it and with the possibility of jointure realignment in mind."

All those contacted mentioned the new redistricting Act 561, which makes it mandatory that redistricting take place in schools throughout the state by 1965.

"If there's any change going to be made," said Mrs. Kessler, "it should be made before 1965."

Not Many Changes

She added that once the redistricting goes into effect, there will not be many changes made afterwards. This seemed to explain why Tullytown was going ahead now with plans to leave Delhaas for Pennsbury.

"As far as we're concerned," said Dr. Muschell on Tullytown's entrance into Pennsbury, "the whole matter is in an exploratory stage only." He said the board won't form an opinion until it receives full data from Tullytown and some indication of how the county superintendent's office feels.

Now 3 Boards

The Pennsbury Joint School Board, a $5,390,000 yearly operation, now has three member boards, Falls, Lower Makefield and Yardley Borough. Tullytown, if added, would make the fourth, and since there is just one elementary school in the Tullytown system, that would bring to a total of 15 schools in the Pennsbury system.

However, Pennsbury is currently accepting bids on a new elementary school on Makefield Road in Falls Township. Dr. Muschell said work should begin in June, and the school should open by September 1963.

Twp. Ponders Tax If Tullytown Leaves

By SCOOP LEWIS

Courier-Times Staff Writer

Tullytown's eagerness to dissolve its association with Bristol Township in the Delhaas Joint School District could have far-reaching effects on Bristol Township taxpayers.

This was the opinion today of Louis A. Alimenti, newly elected president of the Bristol Township School Board, as he commented on Tullytown's desire to become a part of the Pennsbury Joint School District.

"It's a big decision," to make Alimenti cautioned. "Before any steps are taken," he said, "we must consider what we would lose if Tullytown left and what we would gain if we insisted Tullytown stay as a part of Delhaas."

Majority of Board

He pointed out that the proposed dissolution of the Tullytown School Board from the Delhaas Jointure could be blocked since such action would have to be approved by a majority of the 14-member Delhaas board.

The Delhaas Joint School Board comprises five members from Tullytown and nine from Bristol Township.

"If Tullytown was to leave us," Alimenti continued, "it would cut down on our need for more buildings." There are presently 204 children from Tullytown attending secondary schools in the Delhaas system.

"It would also reduce our cost for bus transportation," Alimenti declared. "It takes two buses, each making two trips daily, to transport the pupils to junior and senior high school. At approximately $9,000 per bus, this would represent another reduction to the school tax rate."

Tax Picture

Alimenti was quick to caution that if Tullytown was to leave the Delhaas Jointure "we would lose the tax assessment of the Levittown Shopping Center."

This, of course, would add rather than alleviate the tax picture in Bristol Township.

Looking ahead, Alimenti said that if Morrisville and Tullytown become enjoined with Pennsbury, then "sooner or later Bristol Borough would have to go with some one. And they presumably would become part of the Delhaas system," he added.

3 Charged With Looting Of Machines

Falls Township police have arrested three youths suspected of breaking into several outdoor vending machines in the Levittown-Fairless Hills area.

The youths, one 16 and two 17 years old, are in the Bucks County Detention Home awaiting action of the Juvenile Court. They live in Levittown, Yardley and Morrisville, police reported.

Lt. Rocco DiRosa and Juvenile Officer William Moyer arrested the youths Wednesday night.

Police said the trio admitted breaking into the machines, using a tire iron. Police estimate that they took about $15 from the machines and caused approximately $50 damages to the machines.

On one night, police report, the youths broke into vending machines at Hood and Olds Boulevards, Oxford Valley and Trenton Roads, S. Pennsylvania Ave. and Trenton Road, all in Fairless Hills, and one on Newportville Road, Levittown.

The youths hit the machine on S. Pennsylvania Ave. a second time, police said, and also machines in Lower Makefield and Washington Crossing the same night.

"He carried only a few books and had only 35 cents for lunch money when he left for school," Mrs. Grant stated.

The Grants later learned that William had been given a three-day suspension from school on Friday, April 6, after being caught smoking on school grounds. He is a sophomore at Medill Bair.

When he left for school 19 days ago, Whitehurst was wearing a black shirt, black pants and black shoes. The only other clothing he had with him, Mrs. Grant said, was a black sweater.

The boy is five feet, seven inches tall and weighs about 115 pounds. He has brown hair and gray eyes.

The big push to collect items for its auction, was announced today by the Levittown Lions Club.

With the May 12 event drawing closer the club wants to get enough old clothes, furniture, toys, etc. to keep the auction running all day.

Those wanting to donate items are asked to call CY-press 5-9980 and the articles will be picked up by the Lions.

New Goals For Old Chests

Cancer, TB Cases Research Urged

Dr. Katherine R. Boucot, professor of Preventive Medicine and Clinical Professor of Medicine, Woman's College of Pennsylvania, speaking of "New Goals for Old Chests" before the Bucks County Tuberculosis and Health Society's annual session at Washington Crossing Inn last evening, urged her listeners to "support research" so that the goals to combat respiratory diseases may be attained.

Dr. Boucot declared that "We must search for the causes of diseases like lung cancer and emphysema, which are such a hazard to our older population. We must roll with the punches in adjusting our efforts to find and use new case-finding techniques, and we need research for better case-finding at a stage when cure may be possible."

Improve Therapy

She continued, "We must improve our therapy — by using it in tuberculosis; by finding a vaccine to prevent, or a drug to cure lung cancer, etc., and we must accept the handicap of 'old lungs,' damaged by our own reckless behavior — smoking, coughing and infection."

"We must apply preventive measures to spare our children," she stressed, "and put run heedlessly with the pack."

Dr. Boucot reiterated that "smoking was damaging to lungs, basing her opinion on several years of continuing study in neoplasia research, and urged that parents stop smoking, so their children will not adopt the habit."

Society President

Dr. Boucot was introduced by Dr. Robert Gould of Morrisville, president of the Society.

William D. Braswell, executive director of the society, reported that $40,304.30 was collected in the 1961 Christmas Seal Campaign, the largest amount ever received through a Christmas Seal Campaign in the county.

A slate of nominees for the Board of Directors was accepted and elected upon presentation by Mrs. Clinton H. Patten, a member of the nominating committee. Elected for a two-year term were Richard I. Darnell, M.D., and Mrs. H. Wentworth, New Hope; John E. Bromley, John S. Estburn, Miss Elizabeth Ogden and Mrs. Janice Rodriguez, Doylestown; Dr. Gould and Mrs. Winifred Prather, Morrisville; and Donald J. Ottenberg, M.D., Philadelphia.

Also elected were Frederick T. Bebbington and Warren Bietsch, Yardley; B. Franklin Levy, Trumbauersville; Arthur W. Smith, Riegelsville; Mrs. Lillian Spangler, Perkasie; Llewellyn Williams, Hulmeville; Mrs. Dorothy Coombs, Bristol; C. Percy Moon and Mrs. William C. Anderson, Morrisville; George E. Raab, Doylestown, and John J. O'Donnell, Pennell.

Elected to fill vacancies expiring in 1963 were Norman Detweiler, Quakertown, and Mrs. Arthur H. Paul, Jr., Morrisville. Mrs. Walter Shearer, Morrisville, was elected an honorary member of the board of directors, and William J. Meyer, M.D., of the Bucks County Dept. of Health, was elected to serve on the board ex officio.

The following current officers attended the session in addition to Dr. Gould: John E. Bromley, second vice president, John S. Estburn, treasurer, and Mrs. Clinton H. Patten, secretary.

The invocation was delivered by the Rev. R. Tamaccio, Bristol.

River Job 93 Per Cent Completed

The deepening of the Delaware River channel to 40 feet from Philadelphia to Newbold Island, should be completed by July, 1963, Col. T.H. Setliffe, Philadelphia district engineer said yesterday.

But the authorized 35-foot channel of the River from Newbold Island to Trenton will not be undertaken until local authorities and business groups give assurance that terminal facilities capable of handling the anticipated traffic will be provided, the Delaware Valley Council was told yesterday.

Setliffe said the $75.5 million project is now 93 per cent completed.

He said that engineers may get to work this summer on restoration of the channel to Trenton to its previously authorized depth of 25 feet.

A request to this effect was made by Trenton Mayor Arthur Holland "until we can meet local requirements."

Holland said that Trenton will do this "as soon as budget considerations permit." He said this would possibly be sometime this summer.

Fire Causes $1,000 Loss

Over a $1,000 in damage was caused during a fire this morning at the home of John J. McInerney, 31 Eventide Lane, Elderberry, Levittown.

McInerney is an administrative assistant in charge of Falls Township Recreation for the Pennsbury Schools.

Members of the Falls Township and Levittown Fire Companies battled the fire for an hour. The blaze was discovered by neighbors. There was no one at home during the fire.

Started In Kitchen

The fire apparently began in the kitchen, and spread into the dining room. There is smoke and water damage throughout the house, McInerney said.

Mrs. McInerney was at the dentist when the fire broke out about 11 a.m. Mrs. William Holland, and Mrs. Thomas Briggs, neighbors, spotted the fire, and alerted firemen.

agreement on a nuclear test ban treaty.

Rusk, the first high administration official to reply in public to the wave of vituperation from the Communist bloc, said the United States did not regret its decision to proceed with the tests, but did regret "the necessity for the decision."

It would have preferred an effective test ban pact, he said, but this country will never agree to a treaty based on "blind trusts" of nations operating "behind a veil."

Outside of the angry words from Communist officials, there was only mild disapproval from most neutral nations and staunch backing from Western Allies.

The initial anti-American demonstrations in Tokyo were small and non-violent and press comment in Japan was more restrained than in the past. The biggest demonstration was staged by more than 2,000 persons at the U.S. Embassy in London.

There were other, smaller demonstrations at U.S. embassies in other countries.
